

The most beautiful discovery true friends make is that they can grow separately without growing apart.

Elisabeth Foley